

PACKERS ARE TO FACE JURY NEXT WEEK

Judge Kohlsaat, at Chicago, Quashes Writ of Habeas Corpus.

9 ARE SURRENDERED

Defendants Remanded for Trial and Returned to Their Sureties—Make Appeal.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The government won another move today in its fight to bring to trial nine indicted Chicago meat packers when Judge Kohlsaat, in the federal court, quashed the writ of habeas corpus issued several days ago.

COURT WITHOUT POWER.
Kohlsaat held the circuit court had no power to issue a writ except in extraordinary circumstances, and that in the present case was without that right.

"To do so," he said in his decision, "would be to attempt to review a finding of the United States district court. The order of the court will be to quash the writ, remand the defendants for trial and surrender them to their sureties."

MOTION FOR AN APPEAL.
Levy Mayer, counsel for the packers, entered a motion for an appeal to the supreme court.

"We pray an appeal and ask your honor to fix the amount of bail," said Mayer.

"Under the law," said Attorney Sheehan, the government counsel, "when a writ of habeas corpus is denied it is specifically provided the respondent be remanded."

ORDER VOID, SAYS MAYER.
"Your honor's order to remand is void," said Mayer. "We shall find, unless care be taken, that this question will be snarled so there can be no adjudication."

AFTER NINE YEARS' FIGHT.
The decision means that, after nine years of legal action, the packers must go to trial next Monday, according to the interpretation of the government counsel. Attorneys for the packers, however, contend their appeal to the supreme court will act as a stay and prevent an immediate trial in the district court.

"We win on every point. Court sustains our contention," was the message sent by District Attorney Wilkerson to the attorney general at Washington.

REFUSES TO INTERFERE.
After hearing arguments from the packers' attorneys, Judge Kohlsaat refused to interfere with the trial of the packers, scheduled to begin Monday in the district court. The packers appealed to the supreme court.

DEPARTMENT TO RESIST.
Washington, Nov. 18.—The department of justice will fight the effort of the Chicago packers to secure a stay of proceedings in the trial scheduled to begin Monday, through an appeal to the supreme court. As soon as the appeal reaches that tribunal, counsel for the defendants will be at liberty to ask a supreme court justice or a circuit court judge to issue a stay in the criminal case until the supreme court has passed upon the appeal. The department will resist granting of a stay.

LEAGUES WIN IN NEW RANK FIGHT

Three-Eye One of Organizations Balloting Against the Classification Change.

FINAL RESULT IS 25 TO 3

National Association, in Session at San Antonio, Selects Milwaukee for 1912.

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 18.—By a vote of 25 to 3 the fight for a special "A. A." classification was won by the Pacific Coast league, the Eastern league and the American association at today's session of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues. The Western league, the Three-Eye league and the Mink league voted against it.

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 18.—Norris L. O'Neill, head of the Western league, held the minor league convention here yesterday afternoon by a scrappy at a baseball meeting. The most important change suggested by the committee on constitution was one requiring a two-thirds vote to make the changes looked for by the three big minor league organizations.

The change of classification was recommended by the national commission and was favored by apparently all of the leagues. O'Neill fought hard and convinced some other delegates that the national association had given his league a solemn pledge to allow the Western league to remain in the leading class of the minor leagues. This new classification will affect clubs in the American association, Eastern league and Pacific coast league. At present the clubs are classed as A.

MUST SHOW 1,750,000 STRONG.
Clubs of the American association and Eastern league must have a tributary population of 1,750,000 under the new classification. Clubs of the Pacific coast league will be given their status by agreement.

The constitution was amended to increase the number of members of the national board of arbitration from eight to ten. Class AA leagues will have three representatives; class A, one; class B, two; class C and D, one each. The chairman of the National association will remain chairman of the board.

A new purchase price for clubs in AA class to pay for players drafted from clubs of lower class was made. The purchase price for players drafted from class A is $1,000 from class B $750, from class C $500, from class D $400. It was late in the afternoon when a vote was taken and O'Neill had mustered up eight votes out of a possible 30 and had won.

It was decided to take another vote on the same proposition, and the fun is sure to be warm with Tip O'Neill and Cal Ewing of California leagues at the helm. All joy rides were out yesterday and the national board worked late into the night to clean up a raft of important cases.

MILWAUKEE LANDS MEETING.
The convention selected Milwaukee as the next meeting place. The selection was unanimous. Wheeling, W. Va., and Hot Springs, Ark., withdrew. Columbus, Ohio, asked for the 1913 convention and San Francisco for the one of 1915.

The work of drawing up a new players' contract was then resumed and the discussion was opened by Cal Ewing of San Francisco, who took the stand that a ball player should be restricted from using his photograph taken in baseball uniform to further classes of business that do not benefit the game. A motion introduced by Ewing was passed, which provided for the following clause to be inserted in the new players' contract:

"Any player of any club in organized baseball shall be prohibited from using the uniform of any club without the consent of each season he shall turn in his uniform before he receives his final pay."

When the question of territorial jurisdiction arose it was brought out that the rules governing major leagues and minor league teams in this particular conflicted to a certain extent, and upon motion the matter was left for the national board of arbitration to negotiate with the national commission.

Upon motion of Al Baum of the Pacific coast league a motion was unanimously adopted that the attorney general of the United States should be petitioned to prohibit lotteries, pool selling and other gambling devices which are operated on baseball games and the attorney general of the various states should also be petitioned to enforce the law in this particular.

Although it is hinted in some sources that the hurried military movements in the Philippines are prophetic of American intervention in the Chinese revolution, the explanation generally predicted is that from Washington, that a regiment of troops to be landed in China will have for its only purpose the performance of an international duty under the Boxer treaty in keeping open the line of communication between Peking and the sea, maintaining a military guard along the railway.

PRINCETON WINS FROM YALE TEAM

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18.—A fierce storm swept the football field early today and considerable damage was done by the high winds. The field was a mudhole, but about noon had dried some. Yale was given the kickoff. Princeton defended the north goal.

The same luck which stood by Princeton in the preliminary season held fast in the first two periods in the game with Yale today. The play took place toward the close of the first period, when Princeton was being steadily pushed back to its own goal line. Ketcham made a wretched pass and the ball went clear of every Yale back. White picked up the loose ball on his own 45-yard line and went over the goal line for 65 yards. Through-out the two periods Yale was much superior to Princeton, but could not get beyond the Tigers' 13-yard line. Toward the close of the second period, after four other attempts, Captain Howe finally dropped a goal from the field and from the Princeton 25-yard line. Score at the end of the half: Princeton, 6; Yale, 3.

The score at the end of the second period: Princeton, 6; Yale, 3.

Final: Princeton, 6; Yale, 3.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—The city is thronged with football fans today eager for the Minnesota-Wisconsin game this afternoon. The Wisconsin men expect their team to offset Minnesota's heavier line.

Camp Randall, Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—Minnesota scored a touchdown. Gillette kicked off for Wisconsin. Capron caught the ball on the 20-yard line and ran through the end of the Wisconsin team for a touchdown. Morrell (Minnesota) kicked goal. Both sides played cautiously.

WOMAN INDUCED TO WED ANOTHER

Mrs. Patterson Pens Alleged Biography for Use of Denver Counsel.

TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER

Charges Having Been Tricked by Emil Strouss, Wealthy Chicago Merchant.

Denver, Col., Nov. 18.—Gertrude Gibson Patterson, who will be placed on trial next Monday on the charge of murdering her husband, Charles A. Patterson, has given out what she said was a sketch of her life.

Mrs. Patterson seemed less concerned over the fate a jury may have in store for her than over the effect her story will have on her mother. She said that it would break her mother's heart to learn she was never married to Emil Strouss, a Chicago clothing manufacturer, whom she has heretofore mentioned as having been blackmailed by her husband.

Mrs. Patterson says that when she was 16 years old she went with her sister, Mrs. Farnham, to Chicago, where a friend of the father introduced her to Strouss. She says she asked her to marry him, but said that first she should study. He sent her to Paris.

STROUSS CABLES FOR HER.
Mrs. Patterson says that five months later, responding to a cablegram from Strouss, she returned to New York, and, in company with her supposed benefactor, went immediately to Chicago, where, the biography states, Mr. Strouss registered for both of them as "Miss Gibson" and "Mr. Strouss." Their rooms were adjoining. It was here, Mrs. Patterson declares, Strouss began to renew his promise of marriage, but always he postponed the wedding day. Later, she says, he sent her back to Paris.

"The fall of the same year he came for me again," she continues. "This time he told me that he had given out the information that we were married and that every one believed it. So we came again to Chicago, where we stopped at the Stratford hotel. For five years I lived with him as his wife."

Miss Gibson, as she was then, met Charles A. Patterson at a skating rink. Although she told him her story, he asked her to become his wife and expressed a desire to meet Mr. Strouss.

ALLEGES HUSBAND WAS BOUGHT.
"After his talk with Mr. Patterson Mr. Strouss came to me and said that he was glad that the biggest thing in life had come to me and he wanted me to be happily married," the narrator continued. "It wasn't until some little time afterward that I learned that I had been made the dupe of two men. Imagine my feelings. I was crazed with sorrow."

Strouss, the biographer says, had given Patterson $1,500, which Mrs. Patterson supposed was a wedding present. During a quarrel with her husband she asserts that she learned that this was the sum given Patterson for making her his wife. Thereafter, she declares, life was one long humiliation, filled with Patterson's attempts to make her secure money from Strouss.

FORCED INTO EUROPEAN TRIP.
Accidentally meeting Strouss one day, she says, she told the story of her married life. He expressed sorrow and invited her to take a trip to Europe with him, she asserts, but she refused. Her husband, however, she says, was delighted at the invitation and insisted upon her going, threatening to kill her if she did not.

The story goes on to say Patterson demanded $1,500 from Strouss which the latter turned over to Mrs. Patterson.

While abroad Patterson insisted on more money, which Strouss, the narrative declares, declined to furnish and sent his companion back to the United States. She says that he gave her $5,000 with the injunction that her husband be kept in ignorance of the fact.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Guesses as to the extent of the estate of the late John R. Walsh were set at rest yesterday by the filing of the will in the probate court by George T. Buckingham, friend and personal counsel for Mr. Walsh during the latter part of the banker's life.

The estate, all of which is left to Mrs. Walsh, is estimated not to exceed $808,000. The fortune at the time of the collapse of the Walsh banks was believed to be around $15,000,000, including banks, railroads, quarries, and coal properties, most of which were swept away in the failure.

The petition recites Mrs. Walsh's net worth at the time of her death as $1,500,000, and bringing the total of personal estate not to exceed $750,000. There is real estate valued at around $15,000. In addition there is the copartner's interest in the firm of John R. Walsh & Co., of which Richard Walsh, the son, is the surviving partner. A separate schedule of this copartner's interest is filed later.

The heirs at law are the widow, two sons, John W. of St. Louis and Richard W. of Chicago, and three daughters, Mrs. Orville E. (Ellen W.) Babcock, Mrs. L. Blake (Katherine W.) Baldwin, and Miss Mary Walsh.
